INFORMATION ARCHITECTS ensure that your information and your information service works for you.

If you want to build a house, you can ask your builder to design and build it for you. Or you can buy a plan off-the-shelf.

Alternatively, you can go to an architect to design the house that fits you and your lifestyle.

We do that for your information service – we custom design the service and its information to fit your requirements and not the other way round.

We can also do it for your corporate knowledge.

We can then build the system for you using our strategic alliances with some of the best people in the business.

We are experienced in designing and building:

- Multimedia Systems
- Electronic Publishing Systems
- Knowledge-Based/Expert Systems
- Information Retrieval Systems
- SOHO Networks and Network Services

We also have expertise in:

- Electronic publishing
- Designing and implementing information architectures
- Requirements Analysis
- Project Management
- Visual Arts
